DEBRA JAY, Co-Founder of Love First Private Practice, Writer & Author

Debra Jay's latest books are It Takes a Family: Creating Lasting Sobriety, Togetherness, and Happiness and Love First: A Family's Guide to Intervention, both published by Hazelden. She previously worked as an addictions counselor for the Hazelden Foundation, working inpatient treatment and as coordinator of older adult treatment programming, before co-founding a private practice of her own.

Ms. Jay is also the founder of Structured Family Recovery® and designer of the highly acclaimed Love First Clinical Intervention Training Program. She has served as trustee on several boards including Brighton Center for Recovery, the Care Continuum Board for Ascension St. John Medical Center, and the Dawn Farm Board of Trustees. All of her efforts serve her passion for helping addicted loved ones and creating a space for their family members and treatment professionals to come together.

RYAN DELANEY, Ms, LCPC
Primary Counselor, Ashley Addiction

Ryan has worked in sober living management, IOP counseling, inpatient counseling, and is now the primary clinician for Ashley's extended care for emerging adults. He is passionate about connecting patients to the highest quality of care and hopes his work will help to provide clarity and consistency around what successful treatment looks like and how it is implemented nationwide.

DR. JOHN DYBEN, DHS.c. MCAP, CMHP, ICADC
Chief Clinical Officer, Origins

With his multi-faceted experience and leadership in the substance use disorder treatment field, John's varied skill set includes pastor, counselor, clinical manager, teacher, and respected expert. John continually builds upon his academic expertise through research and nationwide speaking engagements on addiction, spirituality, and related topics.

BRETT HARRISON, CSW
Clinical Social Worker, Cirque Lodge

Brett has worked in the field at various capacities, organizations, and levels of treatment. His experience in the military has driven his focus on treating individuals suffering from complex trauma and substance use disorder. He utilizes a whole health, strengths-based, and trauma informed approach as he continues to expand his clinical expertise across a wide range of interventions.

LYNN WADSWORTH, LCMHCS, LCA, CCS
Director of Clinical Services, Red Oak

Lynn has worked with adolescents, young adults, and their families in hospitals, therapeutic boarding schools, wilderness programs, and residential treatment settings. She works from an attachment-based, emotionally-focused approach to support family healing and leans on the concepts of poly-vagal theory, looking at the parent-child experience through this lens.
